Vegetatio 119: 173–174, 1995.

Contents Volume 119

Floristic diversity and co-occurrences in a subtropical broad-leaved forest and two contrasting regrowth stands in central-west Yunnan Province, China
S.S. Young & S.R. Herwitz 1–14

Relationships of overstory to understory cover variables in a Ponderosa pine/Gambel oak ecosystem
N. Nemati & H. Goetz 15–21

The vegetation of the Puna Belt at Laguna de Pozuelos Biosphere Reserve in northwest Argentina
S.M. Bonaventura, R. Tecchi & D. Vignale 23–31

The status and ecology of a Juniperus excelsa subsp. polycarpos woodland in the northern mountains of Oman
M. Fisher & A.S. Gardner 33–51

Vegetative structure, microclimate, and leaf growth of a páramo tussock grass species, in undisturbed, burned and grazed conditions
R.G.M. Hofstede, E.J. Chilito P. & E.M. Sandovals 53–65

Three-dimensional structure of a mixed broad-leaved forest in Japan
A. Sumida 67–80

Comparison between the soil seed banks of a burnt and an unburnt Quercus pyrenaica Willd. forest
L. Valbuena & L. Trabaud 81–90

Diversity of ecological communities of the United States
J.D. Wickham, T.G. Wade, K.B. Jones, K.H. Riitters & R.V. O'Neill 91–100

Effects of habitat and growing season fires on resprouting of shrubs in longleaf pine savannas
M.S. Olson & W.J. Platt 101–118

Altitudinal zonation of montane Quercus forests along two transects in Chirripó National Park, Costa Rica
M. Kappelle, J.-G. Van Uffelen & A.M. Cleef 119–153

Floristic comparison of mesophytic semideciduous forests of the interior of the state of São Paulo, Southeast Brazil
S.M. Salis, G.J. Shepherd & C.A. Joly 155–164

Book reviews 165–168

Instructions to Authors 169–172

Contents Volume 119 / List of Contributors 173–174